

Have you ever experienced poor in your life? Have you tried nothing to eat at that period? I'm Ju, the chairperson of the Student Union and today I would like to share a movie that inspired me.

Let's me tell you some introduction of this movie. This movie is showing about a boy who lives in Africa. Although he lives in a terrible environment, he tried very hard to invest a windmill, utilized wind energy to improve the problem of water shortage. It is hard to make this machine in a wealthy family, who have a lot of resources for investment. However, the situation of him was worse. He didn't have any technique assist, he didn't have any teacher who can teach him. He just studied the function of the windmill and the principle of wind energy from a book. Besides, he didn't have any sufficient resources to make the windmill. He can use the bare materials in his village to make the invention device. That's all about work hard and persistent to finish successfully.

I learnt that anything may happen possibly from this story. As we can observe, he tried very hard to make it happen. Although he faced lots of difficulties during the process, he had not given up. He just kept a possible mind to invest the machine. He also kept moving forward when he was disagreed by his family. Depended on his work hard, he made the machine successfully at the end. 'Never say Never.' That's the quote which inspired me. Before I watched this movie, I always doubt my ability. I think that I am too stupid and too weak to finish those tasks which are quite unfamiliar to me. I don't want to confront any difficulties as I am so scared that I can't finish those tasks. This movie told me not to afraid of challenges. We can come over all the hurdles if we have an attitude like William. "Whatever you want to do, if you do it with all your heart, it will happen." I hope all of you may reach all the goals if you can put all afford.

What's more, William told us to treasure our resources. William is very poor, he didn't have any resources. However, he didn't give up and tried to use his limited resources to make it happen. In Hong Kong, we all are fortunate. We can get free education which is provided by the government. However, the children who live in a poor country, just like William, can't get any education. Even though they are poor, they treasured all the chance of learning. How about us? How about the people who don't need to think of food, clothing, housing and transportation? Unlike William, we are lucky that we can live in a comfortable environment. However, we do not treasure it. We always think that it is natural. Starting from today, we should treasure all we had as we are getting sufficient resources.

All in all, we should learn the attitude of William and treasure what we had. That's all my inspiration of this movie. Thank You.
